Rose expects to be prepared if a tornado hits the area. Dick Riffle, Stoutsville, helped with the installation.

Officials Support Immunization Plan

ATLANTA (AP) — Gambling with swine-like influenza would be gambling with human life, many of the nation's top state health officials say in supporting President Ford's unprecedented plan to immunize 213 million Americans.

Although the $135 million program announced last week and already approved by the House created controversy, a survey by The Associated Press showed most state medical authorities agree with the President.

Where objections exist, they mainly are technical.

"You can't take chances with people's lives," said Dr. Maynard Mires, director of New Hampshire's Division of Public Health.

"You have to take drastic steps in dealing with drastic illnesses," said Dr. Herbert Domke, director of the Missouri Division of Health. "Influenza is a bad disease. The possible pandemic would be a health disaster."

"We put $118 billion into our health system nationally," said Dr. Leonard Bachman, Pennsylvania's health secretary. "If we could put in $135 million and prevent 20,000 deaths, I think it's the right decision. What have you lost if you've done it?"

"Prevention aspects are so much cheaper than the human suffering," said Dr. Dwight Metzler, Kansas' secretary of health and environment.

A virus which scientists say had characteristics of the swine strain swept the world in 1918 and 1919, killing 20 million persons, including 548,000 in the United States.

By comparison, the Asian flu of the 1950s killed 80,000 Americans and the Hong Kong flu of the 1960s killed 33,000.

The swine-type strain in humans disappeared after the pandemic but researchers at the U.S. Center for Disease Control here suspect it or a similar type reoccurred recently at Ft. Dix, N.J., where one soldier died and many other persons became ill. Those exposed showed antibodies in their blood similar to the swine strain.

The researchers said they fear the isolated outbreak could be the first ripple of a new wave that could strike the nation this fall.

"We still have a lot of questions, but if we wait for the questions to be answered, it could be too late to do anything about it," said Jim Corning of South Dakota's Communicable Disease Division.

"Always before we've operated on a hindsight basis. For the first time, we're operating on a foresight basis."

"Certainly, we can't wait until an epidemic hits us," said Dr. John Counts, chief of the Bureau of Disease Control of the Arizona Health Services Department.

Connecticut's health commissioner, Dr. Douglas Lloyd, expressed concern that the massive effort to immunize against influenza might jeopardize efforts against other diseases.

"This is one priority in competing priorities," he said. "We're not sure this is going to be an epidemic. It doesn't seem to justify such a crash program."

But he said high risk patients, such as those with heart, lung or kidney problems, the young and the elderly definitely should be immunized.

support of the measure.

A spokesman for the Ohio Reclamation and Mining Association asked the committee to put off a vote until next week to allow operators time to study changes in the bill.

Neil Tostensen, lobbyist for the association, said mine operators objected to duplication of federal standards, but want strong safety precautions underground.

"A productive miner is an employee who is healthy and working," Tostensen testified. "Everyone's better off if you can keep him working in a safe place."

Tostensen said most accidents were "results of action by the miner himself." He suggested "periodic training sessions with all of the people in the mines...to show them the inherent danger."

Although Tostensen did not testify as a declared opponent, the mine association has generally opposed the legislation.

The bill would require miners to be equipped with self rescue devices similar to gas masks, and set new state standards for underground roofing, ventilation, maintenance and equipment.

A group of legislators found many of these precautions already in effect at one mine last week when they toured the Rose Valley coal mine near Cadiz in eastern Ohio.

Crime Bill Passes House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's victims of crime could collect damages from money taken from criminals' pockets under a bill approved by the House and sent Wednesday to the Senate.

Rep. David Hartley, D-60 Springfield, won 88-8 approval of his measure to compensate the victims of crime during a busy House session that produced action on 16 bills.

In other business, representatives voted 62-31 for a bill to repeal the state's two-year-old campaign spending limits, in compliance with a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, sending it to the Senate.

Across the Statehouse, senators completed passage of a measure that permits presidential candidates to withdraw their names and delegate slates up to 30 days before the June 8 primary. Currently, the deadline is 65 days. The bill, which senators approved without dissent, now goes to Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Hartley's bill to compensate the victims of crime stirred a flurry of House debate, with some members claiming it is not adequately financed and could result in the years ahead in an unaffordable drain on Ohio's tax revenues.

Under the legislation, a special rotary fund is created to receive new $5 court cost levies that would be imposed for all convictions for all offenses in Ohio with the exception of nonmoving traffic violations.

The bill provides that any Ohioan physically injured or otherwise harmed in a criminal act could file a claim with court of claims commissioners. They could fix awards up to $50,000 if an attorney general's investigation substantiated the claim.

The bill would permit the state to compensate legitimate victims for all economic losses, including lost wages while recuperating or while appearing in court as a witness, along with medical expenses.

Passengers Freed By Hijackers

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — Three armed hijackers claiming to be Moslem rebels released 67 plane passengers unharmed today and a Philippine Airlines jet took them to northern Borneo. The plane landed safely, but local officials were reluctant to give the hijackers asylum.

The hostages freed after more than 24 hours aboard included one American, Jack Schroeder of Santa Monica, Calif., an employee of the James M. Montgomery Co. of Pasadena and a consultant on water supply to the Philippine government.

"I was scared to death the whole time," said Schroeder, 38.

The hijackers, armed with 45 caliber pistols and at least two hand grenades, were accompanied by 10 employees of the airline: executive vice president Rafael Ygoa, who was supposed to be carrying $300,000 in ransom; a special three-man plane crew qualified for international flights; and the six crew members aboard when the plane was seized Wednesday on a domestic flight in the southern Philippines.

After Singapore refused to let the hijackers land, they decided to go to Kota Kinabalu, the capital of the Malaysian state of Sabah, 670 miles south of Manila.

The trio seized the plane and its passengers during a stopover on northern Mindanao Wednesday morning, forced the pilot to fly to Manila and threatened to blow up the plane and its 73 passengers and crew members unless their demands were met.

In addition to the ransom, they demanded the release from jail of four men charged with rape, attempted hijacking or desertion. They gave up that demand when one of the prisoners, Rafael Yabut, was brought to the planes and convinced the hijackers that the four prisoners did not want to go with them.

Early reports that they also sought the release of a political prisoner and a sixth man proved incorrect.

Military authorities said two of the hijackers were named Benjie Subair and Machmod and that both claimed to be members of the Moro National Liberation Front, the Moslem guerrilla army fighting a war for independence in the southern Philippines.

Moslems in Sabah, across the Sulu Sea from Mindanao, are believed to be one of the Moslem rebels' chief sources of money and arms.

See Only Slight Increase In Retail Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices have moderated more than expected and consumers may see only slight increases at least through mid-year, according to the Agriculture Department.

Instead of going up 1 per cent during the first three months of 1976 as USDA experts had been predicting since last fall, food prices held steady, Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said Wednesday. That meant, on the average, that consumers paid about the same for food as they did in the final quarter of 1975.

Further, Paarlberg said, food prices may only "increase slightly" in the second quarter of this year. He said the leveling off in the first three months was due to "unexpected gains in meat supplies," which dampened over-all grocery cost increases.

According to USDA records, the January-March leveling off was the first on a quarterly basis since the price index dropped slightly from the third to the fourth quarter in 1971.

Paarlberg cautioned that "some seasonal price increases" are expected in the coming months for fruits, vegetables and coffee. Also, he said, the farm price of livestock is expected to go up.

"But a trend toward smaller farm-to-retail price spreads for meats might lessen price increases to consumers," Paarlberg said. "Farm prices of food have been declining since last fall. However, farm-to-retail price spreads for livestock are still relatively wide, even though the spread has narrowed in recent months."

The price spreads are what middlemen tack on to food costs for transportation, processing and selling. Paarlberg said that if the trend to smaller spreads continues "it will limit retail food price increases" and help slow the rise in living costs.

Department experts said they cannot predict what will happen to food prices after midyear until more is known about 1976 crop prospects. The new food price analysis is scheduled by and were three months old.

The proposed mansion sale ran into difficulty because buyers and the price already were contained in the bill, a departure from the usual practice of disposing of state land at auctions or by competitive bidding. Buyers were listed as the Affiliate Contractors of America, Inc. and Ray Hill Associates, Inc.

Rep. Dale Locker, D-80 Anna, was turned back 29-63 on his proposal to redefine demonstrators and lease vehicles owned by new car dealers as used cars. He said it would permit used car dealers to purchase such vehicles for resale to their customers, being of particular help to used car dealers competing with those located in other states near Ohio's borders.

the department on May 19. By that time, officials will have a clearer view of how much corn and other spring crops farmers intend to plant this season.

Based on earlier department predictions for the first six months, food prices could be expected to gain an average of 5 to 6 per cent this year from their 1975 level, officials said. The 1975 gain was 8.5 per cent, compared with 14.5 per cent in each of the two previous years. The 1972 increase, just before food prices soared, was 4.5 per cent.

Depending on new 1976 crop information, it appeared that the first quarter leveling off will mean some scaling down of food price estimates to something less than a 5 to 6 per cent gain for all of 1976, one spokesman said.

Legislation Seeks 5-Year Census

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans would be asked to fill out national census forms every five years in order to supply the government with more up-to-date population figures, according to legislation moving through Congress.

Citizens who refuse to answer the census questions would not be subject to penalties under the measure, passed by the House on Wednesday.

The Constitution requires a census every 10 years and one has been taken every decade since 1790. The House-passed bill would establish an additional census at the middle of every decade, beginning in 1985.

"This is a rapidly changing nation and 10 years is too long to wait for accurate information on the population," said the bill's sponsor, Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo.

"Too many plans are based on population statistics to accept out-of-date information," she said. "Many government agencies and private groups already are making surveys of segments of the population at the middle of the decade."

The bill, passed on a voice vote and sent to the Senate, was amended to remove all penalties to those who refuse to answer census questions.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook, R-Ohio, in proposing the amendment removing penalties, said, "The citizens are tired of the federal government prying into their lives. If they don't want to answer questions, they shouldn't be penalized."

Present law provides jail terms of from 60 days to one year and fines from $100 to $10,000 for refusing to answer census questions.

The Schroeder bill originally would have reduced the maximum fine to $1,000 and eliminated the jail terms.

"We need some sort of penalty to get people to take the census seriously and take the time to fill out the form," Mrs. Schroeder said in arguing against Ashbrook's amendment which was adopted 248 to 140.

Another amendment would forbid mid-decade census data from being used for redistricting congressional districts.

Fears by congressmen of more frequent redistricting have held up other bills seeking to establish a mid-decade census. Similar census legislation was first considered in the early 1960s.

Businesses that use census data in making marketing decisions have strongly supported a mid-decade census.

ROUNDTOWN

A FEW questions have arisen from Tuesday's article on the new Chamber of Commerce members ... THE High Fever Follies will start tonight at 8:30 p.m. at the Circleville High School auditorium ... Discount student tickets will be available at the door one hour prior to the performance ... Other tickets will also be sold at the door.

THE Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Pickaway County next Thursday, April 15, at Community United Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. ...

The local chapter has been requested to recruit special donors for open heart surgeries the following week ... The request for 6 AB-positives and 8 B-positives is posing a problem because they are rare types and the file does not contain very many of them ... Persons who know they have AB-positive or B-positive blood and are able to donate are urged to call the Red Cross, 474-5736 to make an appointment ... Also, needed are 30 A-positive, 35 O-positive and 2 B-negative donors ... nine open-heart surgeries are scheduled for that week, requiring at least 118 extra units of blood.

STEEL IN — About 80 per cent of the steel for Circleville's southend water tower has been delivered to the site at the end of Clinton

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market went into another deep slide today, with traders apparently troubled by the sour performance of stock prices following the previous three-month rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down more than three points minutes after the opening, and losers topped gainers by a broad margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The early sell off appeared to be a continuation of Wednesday's sharp decline, when traders were reacting to the market's persistent failure to capture and hold ground above the Dow 1,000 level.

Some analysts believe the long-awaited period of profit taking may have arrived following three months of strong gains.

Among today's prices, Walt Disney declined a point to 59 1/2, IBM was off 1 1/2 to 267 1/2, U.P. Morgan fell a point to 59 1/2, and Mobil Oil dropped 3/4 to 56 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average declined 15.43 to 986.22, the steepest drop in nearly a month and the third worst of 1976.

N Y S E-listed losers outnumbered gainers by a 3 to 1 margin and Big Board volume was 20.19 million shares.

The exchange's composite stock index was down 0.63 to 64.50, while the American Exchange's market value index dropped 0.99 to 103.97.

Quinlan Decision Discussed

DENVILLE, N.J. (AP) — Officials at St. Clare's Hospital won't react hastily to last week's New Jersey Supreme Court decision giving Karen Anne Quinlan "the right to die," a source says.

Trustees at the hospital where the 22-year-old Miss Quinlan has been on a respirator since lapsing into a coma last April met Wednesday to discuss the court ruling.

A hospital spokesman said late Wednesday a statement on the meeting would be issued sometime today.

Attending the private meeting were the hospital's 21 trustees, including doctors, nurses and business people, and Theodore Einhorn, its attorney.

"I can rule that out," the source said when asked if the comatose woman's respirator would be turned off in the next day or two.

"The hospital will not do anything hasty," the source said while the meeting was in progress. "The purpose of the meeting is to discuss a court paper, not to take action."

Last week, the state Supreme Court named Quinlan his daughter's legal guardian and authorized him to order her respirator shut off if competent medical authorities agreed there was no hope for recovery.

Quake Rocks Soviet Desert

MOSCOW (AP) — A strong earthquake hit the Kyzylkum Desert in central Soviet Asia today, and although tremors were felt in towns in the area, not a single building was destroyed, the news agency Tass reported.

The quake center was reported in Uzbekistan, 60 miles north of the ancient city of Bukhara. Tremors were felt there and in Tashkent, the official Soviet news agency said.

The U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Information Service at Golden, Colo., reported the quake measured 6.9 on the Richter scale, heavy enough to cause serious damage in populated areas.

The chief of the Tashkent seismographic station, Valentin Ulomov, said the lack of destruction and casualties was mainly due to "the profound investigation of the nature of earthquakes in Uzbekistan and other Soviet Central Asian republics," Tass said.

It added that information from seismic stations in the area is constantly processed to furnish a "seismic forecast" for the territory, and recommendations have been worked out for quakeproof houses, factories and dams.

Each jump of a full point on the Richter scale, say from 5.5 to 6.5, means a tenfold increase in ground motion.

goes to the Senate, came about as a result of a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision outlawing such limits.

An emergency clause that would have made the legislation have immediate effect was stripped from the bill, meaning that it couldn't take effect until 90 days after being signed by the governor.

In 1974, in a major campaign financing law, the Senate and House set spending limits for every office from governor and U.S. senator down to the municipal and township level.

For governor and U.S. senator, the limit in current law is 10 cents time the population of the state. With Ohio's population at about 11 million, this meant candidates for those offices could spend $1.1 million in each election, primary as well as general.

The law set limits for lieutenant governor, attorney general, auditor, treasurer, and secretary of state races at 1 1/2 cents times the population of the state, or about $150,000.

It provided that candidates for chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court and for associate justice could spend $50,000, and those for state appeals court benches $35,000.

For congressman, the legislature imposed a ceiling of 18 cents time the population of the state, divided by the number of congressional districts (23)—which figures out at about $84,000.

For state senate, it set the limit at 12 cents times the population of the state, divided by the number of senate districts (33), or about $40,000.

For the Ohio House, it placed it at 15 cents times the population, divided by the number of House districts (99)—about $10,000.

Other limits range downward to village and township races, allowing 10 cents times the population of the village or township, or $1,000, whichever is greater.

The bill by Rep. Patrick A. Sweeney, D-6 Cleveland, contains new language—apparently not involving the Supreme Court ruling—which takes away the $100 ceiling the legislature placed on cash contributions to Ohio's political candidates.

Booth Buys ComCorp Stock

CLEVELAND (AP) — Howard Metzenbaum and the other top officer of ComCorp, a suburban newspaper publisher, will sell all their ComCorp shares to Booth Newspapers, Inc., in a deal estimated to be worth about $3.4 million.

Spokesmen for the two firms, announcing the sale, said about 65 per cent of ComCorp's 700, 100 outstanding shares would go to Booth at $7.50 per share. The stock traded Tuesday at $2.25 bid in the over-the-counter market.

The shares were being sold by Metzenbaum, who has been ComCorp board chairman, and by the firm's president and chief executive officer, David Skylar. Skylar will retain his position, a Booth spokesman said.

Skylar said neither he nor Metzenbaum, a Cleveland attorney, would retain a stock interest in ComCorp.

The Booth spokesman said Booth also has agreed to offer in the near future to purchase all remaining shares at the same price.

Israel's Military Aid Hike Hinges On Compromises

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's strong supporters in Congress are pessimistic about their ability to increase military aid to the Jewish state because of President Ford's threat to veto any increase in the foreign aid bill.

"The President holds all the cards on this one," said a Republican who is among congressmen trying to work out a compromise. The bill before Congress would raise the amount of military aid to Israel $550 million above what Ford says he will accept.

The GOP congressman said one compromise effort being considered is to increase aid to Israel by $275 million over Ford's request.

But Ford told congressional leaders Wednesday he will be "forced to exercise my veto" if Congress insists on adding extra money for Israel to the over-all $5.6-billion foreign aid appropriation bill.

The bill includes $2.2 billion for Israel without the extra money. The Republican congressman said Congress could not override a veto if Ford turns down an increase in that sum.

A successful veto could mean the death of the entire $5.6-billion money bill. In that case, all foreign aid would continue at present levels, which would mean Israel would wind up with only $630 million.

Chairman Otto E. Passman, D-La., of the House foreign operations appropriations subcommittee, indicated he will not work out a new bill if the $5.6-billion plan dies.

Ford said in a letter to House Speaker Carl Albert that an extra $772 million for the Middle East, including $550 million for Israel, is "not needed to meet the essential needs of the recipients."

Ford said he was aware that Israel is having economic problems but he said the United States cannot control another government's spending budget. He said foreign aid was never intended to "meet every budgetary deficit or foreign exchange shortfall which another government may incur."

Ford said the United States faces budget pressures, too, adding, "I cannot justify more funds than I have included in my budget request. If I am presented with a final appropriation bill that includes additional funds ... I will be forced to exercise my veto."

The extra $772 million for the Middle East was approved by the Senate, but was not included in the House version. As a result, the full House must vote on whether to accept the added funds. If the House accepts, the measure will go to Ford. If the House rejects the added funds the measure will be returned to the Senate.

Passman indicated that if the House again rejects the extra money and the Senate again approves it, he will let the bill die in his subcommittee.

Medicaid Abuses Probed

Finally, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — the behemoth department which oversees the nation's welfare and health care programs — is launching a major investigation into alleged abuses. The target will not be the Supplemental Security Income program, which even HEW admits has been riddled with errors and abuses costing the taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars.

Instead, the probe now beginning will zero in on doctors and nursing homes suspected of overcharging state and federal governments under the Medicaid health assistance program. This program also is a large one, involving health care assistance provided to more than 10 per cent of the American people.

No one knows how extensive abuses are, although HEW Secretary David Mathews has given "purely a subjective estimate" that as much as 5 per cent of Medicaid payments made this year — or about $750 million — may be involved.

Five of the largest states will be investigated in the department's probe, beginning with Massachusetts this month. Ohio will become the target of federal and state investigating teams in June, with three other states to be chosen for investigations later this year. Those three will be selected from New York, Pennsylvania, Texas, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Three other large states — California, Michigan and New Jersey — are considered to have efficient systems operating to spot fraud. Many of the standards in effect in these states have been adopted by HEW.

Market Opens For Grain-Fed Beef

WASHINGTON (AP) — Feedlots are turning out the most grain-fed beef in two years, while the supply of leaner "nonfed" animals has begun to recede from record levels of a few months ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

"Consequently, consumers are finding larger supplies and lower prices for choice-grade beef cuts at retail meat counters this spring, but the days of relatively low-priced hamburger may be numbered," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Tuesday.

Choice and prime cuts of beef come from cattle, usually younger steers and heifers, which have been "finished" in fattening pens on grain-based feed. Older cows and other low-grade cattle usually wind up as hamburger.

For about two years, because cattle prices have not matched high feed costs, the trend has been to a larger slaughter of so-called nonfed animals. Production of that kind of beef soared to a record supply last fall. Another reason has been that farmers and ranchers thinned out their breeding herds to help reduce an anticipated oversupply of beef.

The record grain harvest last year have helped reduce feed costs so that now more cattle are being placed in fattening pens.

The shift has not been without problems for producers, however. Market prices of grain-fed cattle have been depressed in recent months because of the larger over-all supply of beef. But USDA says the bottom may have been reached and that prices may be turning up.

"Prices began to rise in late March and further strength is expected," the report said. "Although fed cattle marketings may run a fourth or more above depressed year-earlier levels for the next several months, many signs indicate some optimism by feeders is justified."

Market prices of choice-grade steers in the Midwest had dropped to around $35 per 100 pounds by mid-March, down $8 to $10 from early January and were at their lowest level in a year. Now, the report, said, prices may rise to around $45 or more by late spring and early summer before easing down again in the fall.

High hog prices last fall and the easing of feed costs has triggered some expansion in pork production. As of March 1, farmers indicated they planned to increase baby pig production this spring about 10 per cent from a year ago. With last winter's pig crop also larger, slaughter plants could turn out 10 to 15 per cent more pork in the second half of this year than they did in the last half of 1975.

"Although returns to hog producers have been unusually favorable for more than a year, producers are still apparently reluctant to aggressively increase output," the report said. "This may be partly due to the high capital costs required to enter the hog business and the volatility of hog markets over the past two years."

Meanwhile, officials said hog market prices were "relatively stable" in January and February at about $47 to $49 per 100 pounds before declining in early March to about $46. Some increase is likely this spring to about $50 per 100 pounds before "trending lower" through late summer and fall.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's wool producers will get government subsidies totaling about $40 million for wool they sold in 1975, according to the Agriculture Department.

Payments are authorized by the National Wool Act of 1954, which was designed to offer incentives for boosting wool production. The payments basically are made to bridge the gap between what a producer gets for wool on the market and a target or incentive price set by the government.

The incentive price for 1975 wool was 72 cents a pound. Producers got an average of about 44.7 cents on the market so payments will be made to make up the difference. The $40 million scheduled for 1975 wool is compared with $15 million in 1974. No payments were made for 1973 wool because market prices at an average of 83 cents a pound that year exceeded the government's incentive price.

Payments totaled $65 million for wool sold in 1972, and had climbed to a record of $103 million when market prices sagged to 35 cents a pound.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mild weather has enabled farmers to get a big jump on spring field work so that by now they are up to four weeks ahead of their normal schedule in many parts of the country, according to the Agriculture Department.

"These favorable conditions permitted farmers to plant much more spring wheat and oats than normally would be seeded by this time of the year," the department said Tuesday in a weekly weather review.

Although winter wheat by April 4 was in "good to excellent" condition in most areas, the crop in the drought-plagued southern Great Plains continued to suffer from a lack of sufficient rain, the report said.

Cemetery Becomes Historic Library

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Stander feels he has almost gotten to know the occupants at the Pioneer Universalist Cemetery in Reilly Township.

The high school history teacher has been going to the cemetery since he was 8 and after 20 years of wandering around, he's found quite a bit about the lives of those persons buried in the abandoned cemetery located on a quiet knoll in a Butler County park.

Sixty persons are buried in the cemetery, which was started in the early 1800s. By the turn of the century, it was no longer in use. At one time, it served as a burial ground for a religious group called the Universalists, who believed in salvation for all.

Standar happened to stumble onto the site while trying to find the burial place of some people who once owned his parents' farm.

"When I first saw it, only three or four tombstones were up and there was a thick forest all over the place," Standar recalled. "I had to crawl in."

Public interest in the cemetery was rekindled in 1961 when Standar, who was 13 years old at the time, wrote a letter to the editor of an area newspaper about the weed-filled burial ground. That triggered the donation of the land to the county park district. Standar, who teaches in Hamilton, Ohio, published a pamphlet on the history of the cemetery and has done numerous articles on his studies.

"The tombstones can tell you a great deal about a person," Standar said. "I can find out where they were born or buried, and you can gain a great deal from reading the epitaphs. They can tell you if the death came as a shock and sometimes epitaphs like: 'Here lies a sinner saved by grace' tell a lot about a person."

His writings include the legend of the Bressler brothers, Joseph and Mathias, who went off to fight on different sides in the Civil War, and who, according to a local story, came face-to-face on a wartime battlefield.

Standar uses the tombstones as initial clues in his research and takes the information given and then goes to county courthouses, the national archives and rare bookrooms all over the area to find out what he can about the people who were buried at the Universalist Cemetery.

After 20 years, Standar admits he's gained just about all the insight he's going to get into the cemetery, but that doesn't mean that he's giving up the quest to learn about the past.

He's just moving to another graveyard, three miles away, where he's restoring another abandoned cemetery.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, April 8, the 99th day of 1976. There are 267 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1513, the Spanish explorer, Ponce de Leon, landed in Florida in his search for the fountain of youth.

On this date:

In 1730, the first Jewish congregation in America consecrated its first synagogue. The congregation in New York City dated back to 1655.

In 1826, Secretary of State Henry Clay fought a duel with Senator John Randolph of Virginia — without either getting hurt.

In 1939, King Zog of Albania fled as Italian troops invaded his country.

In 1961, a referendum in France approved a peace settlement with nationalists in Algeria.

In 1968, the U.S. Supreme Court removed the death penalty provision from the Lindbergh kidnapping law.

Ten years ago: Fire swept the liner, Viking Princess, on a holiday cruise off Cuba. Ships of three nations rescued the 494 passengers and crew members. Two passengers died of heart attacks.

Five years ago: Terrorists bombed a dance hall in Saigon, killing an American soldier and a Vietnamese girl.

One year ago: Two North Vietnamese divisions began an offensive in the upper Mekong Delta in South Vietnam, to try to cut the highway link between Saigon and its sources of food further south.

Today's birthdays: Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia is 57. Opera tenor Franco Corelli is 53.

Thought for today: Perfection is attained by slow degrees. It requires the hand of time — Voltaire, French writer, 1694-1778.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the body of American G. A. Joseph Warren was removed from Bunker Hill, where he had been killed in the battle on June 17, 1775, and was reburied with full military honors in Boston.

State Workmen's Compensation Audit Sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Industrial Commission is arranging to have a thorough audit conducted of the state workmen's compensation program, Chairman William W. Johnston announced Tuesday.

Johnston said the State Insurance Fund will be audited from Dec. 31, 1972, to the present.

He said the last audit report—showing an actuarial deficit of $642 million in the $1.5 billion State Insurance Fund—and rumors of financial problems at the commission were the reasons for the decision to order the audit.

The last private audit done for the commission in the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation turned up the deficit as of December 1972. The bureau disputed the findings and claimed there was a $27 million surplus in the fund.

Johnston said the audit was not connected to Gov. James A. Rhodes' efforts to remove Gregory Stebbins as a commission member. The removal request is now pending in the Senate. Stebbins is continuing to serve and voted for the audit.

LAFF - A - DAY

"I used to play big-league baseball, but they kept yelling 'Throw the bum out!'"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I read about hormones that are added to the food of cattle and the hormones that are used in cosmetics. Just what are hormones? What are they expected to do?

Miss T. E., Ga.

Dear Miss E.:

Hormones are specialized substances that are produced by endocrine glands located in various parts of the body.

The way the endocrine system functions outdoes the accomplishment of sending men to the moon. This sounds like an extravagant statement, yet there is no manmade electronic or computerized device that approximates the wonders of these "ductless glands."

Hormones are involved in every single important mechanism of body functions. They affect the regulation of growth, sexual development, regularity of menstrual period, the maintenance of body metabolism, and the control of the chemical balance in the blood.

The elimination of fluids from the body, the digestive mechanism, the speed of muscle response, reflex activity, body balance are only a few of the body mechanisms that depend on hormones.

The thyroid gland in the neck encircles the parathyroid buds the thymus gland in the chest during infancy, the pituitary gland in the brain, the adrenal gland near the kidneys are all important members of the endocrine system.

In addition, there are the ovaries, the pancreas, the testes and the pineal gland in the brain. All of these function independently and in coordination with each other.

The complicated interaction between all of the endocrine glands occur in the fraction of a second. The speed and reliability with which the hormones function defies imagination.

Does it make any sense to slap somebody who has fainted in order to arouse him?

Mrs. G. J., Del.

Dear Mrs. J.:

People who have fainted feel miserable enough without being subjected to a slap in the face, a drenching of ice water, or a shot of whisky forced down their throats.

When someone faints try to make them comfortable by loosening their tight clothing, their ties and belts. If possible keep them lying on their back, with head lower than feet. This brings the blood to the brain more rapidly and helps to revive them.

Be sure that there is sufficient ventilation. Cover the victim if he is cold and of course, seek medical help if he is not immediately revived.

Betty Ford Seeks Votes With Citizen Band Radio

WASHINGTON (AP) — The husky growls of burly truckers warning each other of smokies and their radar traps and advising of detours around the weight station mingled with the dulcet tones of a woman calling for votes.

It was Washington's newest Citizens Band radio freak trying out her fresh new CB license and calling for Wisconsin voters to cast their ballots for her husband, President Ford.

A White House spokeswoman said Mrs. Ford tried out her new license on Wisconsin voters over the weekend and liked campaigning by radio so much she probably will do it again during other primary campaigns.

The President's wife made hasty application for a temporary Federal Communications Commission license so she could use the Citizens Band radio to communicate with Ford campaigners in Wisconsin.

So when a group of some 240 Ford backers from the President's home town of Grand Rapids, Mich., were campaigning in Madison, Wis., with a blitz convoy equipped with radio communications, Mrs. Ford joined in.

She talked CB jargon with the "Grand Rapids scatter blitzers," as the Michigan group was nicknamed, "all you CBers in Wisconsin" and whoever else happened to be tuned in.

She made a frank political pitch to them.

She urged the Michigan convoy to "keep on talking for President Ford" and added, "We appreciate your help in keeping the Fords '10-20' (location) at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. (the White House)."

An FCC spokesman said the CB network is the only communications outlet where there are no restrictions on politicking. FCC officials say most major candidates in the past have applied for CB licenses. But so far, spokesmen at the FCC said, Mrs. Ford is the only prominent political applicant in Washington who has applied for licensing in 1976.

If she uses the radio on her expected campaign trip to Texas, she could get an audience of 287,762 — the number of persons the FCC says are licensed in that key primary state.

While addressing the Michigan group, Mrs. Ford could have been heard by any of 56,000 CBers the FCC says are licensed in Wisconsin.

If any of them warned the First Lady that the smokies (police) had set up a radar trap near the scales, the White House didn't mention it.

Cystic Fibrosis Victims Aided

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Longer life spans for cystic fibrosis victims were reflected in a bill approved by the House 96-0 Wednesday.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, permits the state to continue subsidies of victims of the disease after they reach 21 years of age.

Rep. Frederick H. Deering, D-84 Monroeville, said victims who formerly died in childhood or while in their teens now live into their 30s and 40s, due to increased medical knowledge and technology.

National Library Week Observed With Open House

The Pickaway County District Public Library was fragrant with spring blossoms on Sunday afternoon as Friends of the Library welcomed Pickaway Countians to an open house in observance of National Library Week.

Bouquets of lilacs, daffodils, violets, hyacinths, narcissus and tulips highlighted the special book displays prepared by the staff for the event. The tea table featured an arrangement of dutch iris, mauve tulips, eucalyptus, heather and baby's breath in an antique frosted glass compote.

Library trustees were on hand to welcome guests, who were free to tour the Bookmobile as well as the main building. Guides stationed in various areas to answer questions were Mrs. Ray Davis, Miss Nell Oesterle, Mrs. Joseph Peters and Mrs. John Dunlap Jr.

Miss Eleanor Craig, head librarian, introduced staff members and distributed a library fact sheet with interesting statistics concerning the literary interests of library card holders.

Staff members are Fritz Cox, Jesse Cummings, Pat Gentzel, Verna Grewell, Jane Jacobs, Christine Morgan, Elsie Bartholomew, Eleanor Hancher, Nell Jean Corcoran and Mary Jane Buckel. Kay Sahr was presented as the new Children's Librarian. She will replace Mrs. Buckel, who will be moving to Toledo.

The Children's Room was a popular spot on the tour as visitors admired the newly acquired Christmas Clown, a colorful signed lithograph by Red Skelton, which was recently presented to the library by Cooke Metzger, member-at-large of the executive committee of the Friends of the Library.

Assorted tea cookies and punch were served by a committee consisting of Mrs. Emerson Spicer, Mrs. Dick Tootle, Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. Tom Renick and Mrs. H. N. Stevenson. Mrs. Kermit Dountz was general chairman.

Tomlinson-Riley Vows Exchanged

St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church of Fort Myers, Fla., was the scene of the wedding of Miss Carolyn Denise Tomlinson and Mr. Edward Joseph Patrick Riley Jr. on March 6.

Mrs. Voncile Tomlinson of Fort Myers, Fla., and the late Charles Lee Tomlinson Jr., are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riley, Circleville.

The bride selected a gown of ivory chiffon with an empire bodice, full skirt with wateau train appliqued with lace. Her three-quarter length veil was bordered with lace.

She was attended by Miss Debbie Lance as maid of honor, and Miss Donna Lance and Miss Kathy Riley, were bridesmaids.

Best man was Mr. Jim Gazdik. Ushers were Mr. Terry Riley, Mr. Chuck Tomlinson and Mr. Mike McFall.

The couple will reside in Circleville. Mrs. Riley is a graduate of Cypress Lake High School and attended Edison Community College. The bridegroom is self-employed.

FAMILY DINNER

Fish filets, potatoes, green beans, health salad, strawberry tapioca cream.

Health Salad

Chopped iceberg lettuce
Medium-fine grated pared carrot
Medium-fine grated cheddar cheese
Raisins
Commercial sour cream
Lemon juice
Sugar, if desired
Salt

Toss together all the ingredients in the proportions you prefer to make the quantity you need. Serve at once.

Circle Will Meet

Rebecca Circle of Trinity Lutheran Church has scheduled a meeting for 9:15 a.m. Wednesday in the church parlor.

AAUW Board Meets

Circleville Chapter, American Association of University Women, board of directors, will meet 8 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. William Lyle, Knollwood Village.

Making pie from water-pack canned tart red cherries? It's handy to remember that a 1-pound can of the cherries yields 1½ cups drained weight and a little more than two-thirds cup juice.

House Concurs Detention Funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House concurred 43-0 in Senate amendments and sent the governor Wednesday a bill permitting the state to allocate about $3 million to regional juvenile detention centers.

Sponsors said that although the money already has been appropriated, the bill was required to trigger subsidies for the centers operated by groups of two or more local government entities. It will go both for detention and rehabilitation services.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Married Ex-Beau Keeps Haunting Her

DEAR ABBY: I went with this man for three years, and it was the real thing, but we had a big fight. Before he cooled off, he jumped into a marriage that he regretted right away.

I am still single, but I have no time for him because he is a married man now and has been for six years.

Every time his wife goes to the hospital to have another baby, he calls me at work and sends me telegrams begging me to see him. He says he still loves me.

To tell the truth, I still have a soft spot in my heart for him. I know I shouldn't see him, but how can I get him out of my heart before I weaken?

DEAR STILL: There is nothing you can do about a "soft spot in your

PRJVS Teachers Attend Confab

Mrs. Christine Ludwig, Mrs. Sue Trakas, and Glen Tyra from Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center attended the 48th annual convention of Ohio Business Teachers Association in Dayton, April 1-3.

Business educators from high schools and universities throughout Ohio heard over 50 specialists participating in discussions of teaching new trends in business and office subjects. The highlight of the program was Dr. Fred Winger, one of the foremost authorities in the teaching of typewriting.

Other noted speakers included Henry D. Ranson, Assistant Manager of the Secondary School Department of South-Western Publishing Company, Dr. Thomas Miller Jenkins, Dean of the College of Community Services, University of Cincinnati, and Bob Batz, columnist for the Dayton Daily News.

Tours included NCR Sugar Camp, First National Bank, Mead Company, Dayton Newspapers, Inc., Monarch Marking, Top Value Enterprises, and L. M. Berry. These tours gave insight to the technology being used by business. Teachers also visited Franklin Square Shopping Center which houses tiny shops that feature imports from every continent of the world, and the United States Air Force Museum which is the largest aviation museum in the world.

Harry Ertel, B.O.E. Supervisor, Great Oaks Joint Vocational School District and Mrs. Mildred C. Constant, of Western Hills High School, Cincinnati were honored as the OBTA "Business Educators of the Year."

Dennis Devine of Montgomery County Joint Vocational School was installed as president to succeed Mrs. Barbara Provost of Worthington.

Medicaid Overhaul Upcoming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state's Medicaid program is due for a major overhaul in the months ahead with a federal investigation of possible abuses and an order to decrease services covered by the $450 million budget.

There is general support for the federal investigation among health care officials, although they doubt that the monetary gains could have a major economic impact on the Medicaid program.

The federal investigation planned for June focuses on Ohio and several other states to identify possible sources of abuse by providers of medical services.

The investigation, endorsed by Gov. James A. Rhodes, will include development of a continuing plan to check such abuses as overcharges, requesting reimbursements for ineligible patients and withholding the full services indicated in the charges to the program.

Investigators could pattern their

Banks May Not Discriminate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Banks, security dealers, and other financial institutions in Ohio would be barred from discriminating on the basis of national or religious origin under a bill that has cleared the Ohio House 54-39.

But the bill by Rep. Harry J. Lehman, D-16 Shaker Heights, touched off long debate Wednesday amid claims it runs afoul of the interstate commerce clause of the U.S. Constitution.

Lehman introduced the bill, he said, to make it part of Ohio's policy not to be forced into economic boycotts against Jews and other peoples such as those imposed recently in the Middle East.

Rep. Waldo Bennett Rose, R-64 Lima, said that while he applauds the bill's purpose, he feels it represents an attempt to involve the legislature in U.S. foreign policy. He said the problem should be left to Congress.

The best thing for members of the House to do, if they want to get some action on the problem, would be to "write your congressman," Rose said.

Lehman's bill now goes to the Senate.

work after a recent investigation by the U.S. attorney's office and the Senate into the activities of nursing home operators in New York. A key figure in the case recently pleaded to guilty to charges stemming from that investigation.

Some 36 investigators from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will work with state officials to establish procedures for identifying fraud and overpayments to health care providers, said Raymond McKenna, Ohio's director of public welfare.

But McKenna said the money recovered by reducing abuse will be small compared to a $40 million Medicaid deficit he projects for this year.

To erase that deficit, he has ordered elimination of certain Medicaid services starting May 1. The cuts will mean that Ohio will be providing only those services required by federal law.

"We hope that if there are areas of fraud and abuse in the current program the survey will identify them," McKenna said. "I seriously doubt if we can recover enough to significantly change the department's position that services must be cut."

McKenna said he doesn't think the investigation will measurably change the size of the state's $450 million Medicaid budget.

"It will depend on how much we are able to recover," McKenna said. "But we're spending $450 million. Even if we save $1 or $2 million (as a result of the investigation), though substantial, that really doesn't have a significant impact on this type of program."

Representatives of health care groups, though concerned about the impact of the cuts in Medicaid funding, say they support efforts to clean up cases of welfare abuse. There is also agreement that the monetary gains will not substantially change the scope of the Medicaid budget.

The Ohio Hospital Association, which represents more than 200 hospitals in the state, also supports the Medicaid investigation. "While hospitals were not singled out for

Teenage Unemployment High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the improving economy, teen-age unemployment is at a record high and experts say job prospects for teenagers will be dim for years. One authority calls the problem "social dynamite."

The Joint Economic Committee of Congress, noting predictions of severe unemployment through 1980, says it will result in increasing crime, drug use and other forms of antisocial behavior among the nation's teenagers.

"If that isn't social dynamite, I don't know what is," says Sar Levitan, director of George Washington University's Center for Manpower Studies.

Levitan and other economists say today's youth — products of the postwar baby boom — are growing up without developing adequate work experience, creating a generation they say will burden society with higher welfare payments and other social costs for the next 20 years.

"One of the most tragic consequences of the 1975 recession and the severe unemployment projected through 1980 is the economic, social and psychological impact it will have on many young people," reported the Joint Economic Committee.

"Prolonged unemployment," the committee said, "increases the incidence of crime, drug abuse and other forms of social behavior that can ruin a person's chance of achieving a productive life in the future."

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that at the height of the recession last year, about 3.7 million youths — divided equally between teen-agers and those in their early 20s — were unemployed. They accounted for almost one-fourth of the civilian labor force but almost half of all unemployed workers.

Jobless rates for teen-agers and young adults have traditionally been higher than the rest of the work force. The recession made it worse.

While the over-all jobless rate has improved in recent months — dropping from a recession peak of 8.9 per cent last May to 7.6 per cent in February — the teen-age jobless rate remains above 19 per cent, with 3.7 million still unemployed. For blacks, the situation is even more grim. Government figures show that 34.6 per cent of black teen-agers, age 16 to 21, can't find a job. In the inner cities, the rate exceeds 50 per cent.

"There's a lot of wasted skills as the years go by," says Nat Goldfinger, the AFL-CIO's research director. "There's a generation of young people out there who don't have to get up in the morning to go to work. They have no work discipline and are left to hang around the streets."

Goldfinger says that besides the higher crime and other problems that result, there's a great potential for political problems. "We're developing a group that's alienated, who are kind of cut off from the mainstream of society."

The major reason for the persistent teen-age unemployment is sheer numbers. The postwar baby boom has swelled the number of teen-agers in the labor force from 4.8 million to 8.8 million over the past 15 years. Each year, another 2.5 million enter the labor force.

Although the birth rate has declined since the early 1960s, Levitan says this won't affect the work force until after 1980.

Numbers are not the only reason for persistent teen-age unemployment. Women are entering the labor market in increasing numbers and are competing with younger workers for jobs. At the same time, job opportunities have dried up, such as in agriculture, once a major employer of teen-agers, where the size of the over-all work force has declined in recent years.

The disappearance of the neighborhood grocery store and other small businesses that once employed teen-agers both full and part time, has also been a factor.

"The kinds of job opportunities that kids had 25 years ago have largely disappeared," says Goldfinger. "Blacks, to a great extent, are locked into central city slum areas and especially feel the loss of neighborhood stores."

One area that benefitted from the recession is the military. Pentagon officials say the armed forces have had no trouble meeting their recruiting goals, and could even afford to be more selective on who they choose.

But even the military has provided only limited job opportunities. This summer, with the 1976 crop of high school graduates entering the job market, economists say jobs will again be at a premium.

To ease the problem last year, the Ford administration provided $500 million for 840,000 summer jobs. A final decision hasn't been made for this summer, but preliminary figures indicate about $440 million will be spent to put some 740,000 teen-agers to work for the nine weeks.

Economist Levitan says the federal government should be doing more, not only to help provide summer jobs, but also to increase long-range prospects.

"To say the recovery will take care of the problem is painting too rosy a picture," says Levitan in criticizing the administration's policy of relying on private industry to generate enough work.

The Joint Economic Committee recommended creation of a permanent jobs program for young people, establishment of a youth employment service within the U.S. Employment Service and more funding of the summer jobs program to provide at least as many jobs as last year.

Public Hearings May Resolve Water Conflicts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Public hearings to resolve conflicts between ground water users could be required by the state division of water under a bill now half way through the legislature.

The House approved 91-3 and sent the Senate on Wednesday a bill that also adds to the division's functions the responsibility for measuring stream depths in Ohio — a function now permitted but not required by the environmental protection agency.

Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, sponsored the bill which he said it needed to improve the state's water resources management program.

The first successful ironworks built in the United States was at a site 10 miles north of Boston in the 1640s. It produced about 150 tons a year.

Sadat Meets With Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican welcomed Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to an audience with Pope Paul VI today as "a prominent statesman of international prestige" seeking "a fair settlement of the Middle East conflict."

Vatican and Egyptian sources said Jerusalem, the city holy to Judaism, Christianity and Islam, would figure prominently in the first meeting of an Egyptian president with the Roman Catholic pontiff.

Since Israel took the holy places in East Jerusalem from the Arabs in the 1967 war, the Pope has called for a special international status for the city. Sadat wants East Jerusalem returned to the Arabs, who held it from 1948 until 1967, and Israel says the whole city is now united as part of Israel and is going to stay that way.

Egyptian sources said Sadat would also bring up the Palestinian issue and seek the Pope's help in ending the Christian-Moslem civil war in Lebanon. Previous Vatican diplomatic efforts to halt the Lebanese killing have had no effect.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano, in a front-page comment, saluted the 55-year-old Egyptian leader as "a prominent statesman of international prestige, fervently committed to political action aimed at promoting the decisive economic and social development of his nation and at the same time favoring the search on the basis of realistic premises for a fair settlement of the Middle East conflict, already 30 years old (and) always gravely threatening."

This praise was in sharp contrast to the reserved attitude the Vatican took toward Israeli Premier Golda Meir's audience with Pope Paul in 1973. Mrs. Meir had hardly left the Vatican when it issued a statement calling attention to its "warm relations" with Israel's Arab foes.

Sadat's audience with the 78-year-old pontiff concluded a three-day visit to Italy, the fourth stop on a five-nation European tour seeking economic, military and political support to replace the help denied by the Soviet Union.

No major arms deals have been announced after Sadat's meetings with the leaders of West Germany, France and Italy, but the sale of various war materials is believed to be under negotiation.

Officials View Universal Price Code System

TROY, Ohio (AP) — Two Senate Transportation and Local Government Committee members viewed the only operational supermarket in Ohio with a Universal Price Code system on Wednesday.

The committee is considering a bill approved by the House that requires standard pricing, with the cost of each item in numerals on all products, along with the computer pricing.

The bill was originated by Rep. Sherrod Brown, D-61 Mansfield.

The code is a price labeling system that permits the charges on each item to be totaled by a computer. The code on the package shows up as a series of light and heavy lines.

An amendment will be placed on the bill to exempt items that cost a nickel or dime, such as individual sticks of gums and packets of small candy.

Grocers say the stamping of each item with the cost in numerals would cut the savings expected by a computer operation.

The visit by Sens. Donald L. Woodland, D-16 Columbus, and William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, was to clarify conflicting testimony on the bill. They heard complaints and compliments from shoppers in the store owned by Marsh Supermarkets Inc. of Yorktown, Ind.

Showers, Cool Weather Seen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers were expected today along the Pacific Coast and scattered showers and thundershowers continued from the western Gulf Coast into the central Plains.

Thundershowers were also forecast for Florida, but clear skies prevailed over most of the rest of the nation.

Temperatures were a little below normal in California, Florida, the southern Plains states and from the Great Lakes to the northern Atlantic Coast. Seasonably warm spring temperatures prevailed elsewhere.

Storm watches and warnings that were posted Wednesday across much of the South were taken down today as the storms quieted down. Nearly a dozen tornadoes touched down in parts of Texas on Wednesday.

Rainshowers decreased today over the central Plains and Florida, but widespread rain continued along the Pacific Coast from Washington to central California.

The rain changed to snow showers in the higher elevations of the intermountain region. Travelers advisories were posted for snow in the higher elevations of California this morning.

Freeze and frost warnings were issued early today for Ohio, and a frost warning was posted for the North Carolina mountains.

The Rocky Mountain states remained partly cloudy today as did areas in the Great Basin and the Southwest. Clear skies covered most of the Ohio Valley and the upper Great Lakes through the northern Plains.

Clear skies were also reported along the Atlantic Coast from New England through the Carolinas.

Temperatures early today ranged from 19 at Burlington, Vt., to 76 at Key West, Fla.

AT BOOKS IN THE CHILDREN'S LIBRARY

The new Caldecott Award winner has been announced! The Caldecott Medal is given each year to the artist of the most distinguished American picture book.

The winner this year is "Why Mosquitoes Buzz in People's Ears" by Verna Aardema. In this humorous African legend, Mosquito tells a tall tale that sets off a chain reaction that ends in a confused jungle. If you want to check out a winner, try this one!

"Strega Nona" by Tomie de Paola is one of this year's Caldecott Honor books. Beautifully illustrated, the story tells of a magic pasta pot left by Strega Nona in the care of Big Anthony who wants to become a hero in the townspeople's eyes. A fun book to read to your young child.

Another Caldecott Honor book is "The Desert Is Theirs" by Byrd Baylor. The story is a tribute to the people, animals and plants of the desert who would not want to live elsewhere and who know how to live in their hard, lonely area.

Moving from the Caldecott Award books to other popular subjects we find "Great Whales" by Patricia Lauber. The book describes the characteristics and behavior of different kinds of whales and tells why they are threatened by extinction. A fascinating book for those who are interested in sea life.

"Let's Discover Changes Everywhere" by Ada Graham explains how nature changes in springtime. Beautiful photographs help tell the story of the wonders of Spring.

In these days when most children are interested in dinosaurs, it's helpful to know that the Children's Room has lots of those books available. "If I Rode A Dinosaur" by Miriam Young is about a boy who imagines himself riding all the dinosaurs. A short description is given for each dinosaur. An easy book for the younger child.

The daring rescue of Willy Frog by Tim Mouse and Mr. Brown is told in "Tim Mouse Goes Down the Stream" by Judy Brook. Tim finds a bottle with a message in it floating down stream. Willy Frog has been captured by a gang of fierce river rats and needs to be rescued! Story is enhanced by beautifully colored illustrations.

One Saturday Rabbit starts out for bear's house. Bear always bakes a Carrot Cake on Saturday! Rabbit's mouth watered at the thought of Carrot Cake. On his way he is offered other tempting foods and refuses. But what's this? Bear did not bake a cake today!!! Find out if he does get to eat Carrot Cake in "Rabbit Finds a Way" by Judy Delton.

The Children's Room has lots of good books to read. So come in and see what terrific reading we can offer your child!!

Roberts' Rule Of Masters To End; Fitting Farewell

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Another Masters unfolds today — the last under the steady eyes and iron rule of Clifford Roberts — and one may wonder what the 1976 tournament can produce as a fitting farewell to the man who was architect of some of golf's greatest dramas.

Is it possible to surpass the pulse-pounding finish of a year ago when Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller came down to the end head-to-head with Nicholas sinking a 40-foot putt on the 70th hole to clinch it?

Can Nicklaus capture his sixth Masters? Can Arnold Palmer, a graying but still dynamic competitor at 46, regain his old charging magic for one last hurrah to pile another green victor's jacket on the four already hanging in the Augusta National's trophy room? Can Johnny Miller muster one of his birdie binges that has made him the Winter Tour king of the last three seasons, or can Hubert Green pick up on his string of three straight victories scored in Florida before last week's layoff?

Can an amateur win for the first time in the tournament's 42-year history — perhaps the national amateur champion Fred Ridley of Winter Haven, Fla.; Curtis Strange of Virginia Beach, Va., or the Brazilian invader, Preszelo Gonzalaz Diniz? The feeling is that something exciting and transcendent always happens at the Masters, such as Gene Sarazen's double eagle in 1935, the scrambling antics of colorful Billie Joe Patton in 1954, the collapse of amateur Ken Venturi, who yielded nine shots to Jack Burke Jr., in the final round in 1956 and the Ben Hogan-Sam Snead and Hogan-Byron Nelson playoffs of earlier years.

"There can never be another Cliff Roberts," William H. Lane, 52-year-old package food executive from Houston said Wednesday after receiving the cloak of tournament chairman from the 82-year-old New York financier who has guided the Masters since its birth in 1933.

Roberts' retirement, rumored for the last several years but expected by no one, hit Augusta National like a thunderclap. His successor was a complete surprise.

With a typical slow drawl and dry wit, Roberts introduced Lane to a large gathering of the press and laconically added:

"I'm not going to call on Bill because I'm chairman of this tournament until its conclusion and I don't want any interference from him."

When reporters continued to press for some background information on the new chairman, Roberts sternly shut off the course of questioning. "I stated previously Mr. Lane is to remain silent until the end of this tournament," Roberts said he would stay on as chairman of the Augusta National Club.

Westfall Edged By Southeastern

Westfall dropped a Scioto Valley Conference baseball game to Southeastern, 5-4, Wednesday, when the winners scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Schrader and Barker pitched for the winners, fanning five, walking five and allowing eight hits.

Chris Riddle went all the way for Westfall, fanning five, walking two and allowing seven hits. Westfall committed three errors and Southeastern two errors.

Hits by Westfall players included a pair of singles by John Long, a pair by Howard Rowland, and one each by Rick Stillings, Kevin Reid, David Valone and Chris Riddle.

Collecting hits for Southeastern were Baxter, a double; Duckworth, two singles; Lawson, Gray, Estep and Holton, one single each.

Westfall has a 2-4 overall record and is 1-2 in the SVC. Tonight the Mustangs host Miami Trace.

Logan Elm Loses To Bishop Flaget

Logan Elm lost to Bishop Flaget High School, 6-2, Wednesday in a non conference baseball game played at Chillicothe.

Mike Johnston was the Logan Elm hurler. Going all the way on the mound he gave up seven hits, walked three and struckout four.

Mavis, the winning pitcher, allowed only three hits, singles by Jerry Scanlan, Jeff Reichelderfer and Tony Crist.

Logan Elm now has a 4-3 record and is 2-0 in the Mid State. Tonight they play Bloom Carroll, 1-1 in the Mid State title chase, and a 20-2 loser to Whitehall yesterday.

Lothead Undergoes Surgery Today

DETROIT (AP) — Surgery was scheduled today for Detroit Red Wings right-winger Bili Lothead, who suffered a fractured vertebra in an auto accident Sunday, the National Hockey League team reported.

Lothead, a second-year pro, was involved in the accident en route to his home from the team's final game of the season.

Dr. Robert E. Bailey, who operated on Lothead for a shoulder separation last summer, said surgery is needed to repair the sixth cervical vertebra.

He said the operation would be performed at University Hospital in Ann Arbor.

After talking with doctors, club officials said they expected no ill-effects on Lothead's ability to play. They said Lothead would be hospitalized for about one month and would wear a neck brace for about four months.

Tiger Varsity Beats Wilmington, 6-1

The Circleville High School baseball team won its first South Central Ohio League baseball game Wednesday defeating Wilmington 6-1 on the losers' diamond.

Biff Bumgarner went all the way on the mound, striking out seven, walking three and allowing only five hits.

Brian Williams was the losing pitcher, giving up eight hits, three walks

CHS Reserves Lose Tilt, 15-4

Victims of an 8-run fifth inning, the Circleville High School reserve team lost to visiting Wilmington Wednesday, 15-4.

Wilmington hurler Gordley went all the way on the mound, fanning three, walking eight and allowing only six hits.

For Circleville, Scott Sanders started. He walked six, fanned four and was touched for six hits. He was relieved by Alan Ranck who walked three fanned two and gave up three hits.

For Circleville Bret Allen had two singles, Rusty Holbrook, Jeff Meena and Sanders one single. The reserves have a 1-1 record and travel to Washington C.H. Saturday for a double header. Game time is noon.

and fanning five of the Tigers.

Bumgarner aided his own cause getting three singles in four trips to the plate and scoring two runs. Jerry Strawser and Bob Fullen had a one-bagger apiece while Bo Barthelmas drove in a run with a single.

Doug McGlone drove in a run with a single and Brad Allison drove in two runs with a single.

The Tigers got three runs in the first inning and two in the fourth followed by one in the fifth.

Wilmington tallied its lone run in the second frame. Wilmington slipped to a 2-4 overall record while Circleville is 2-2 overall and 1-2 in the SCO. Friday the Tigers will host Washington C.H. Game time is 4:30 p.m.

3 Circleville Men To Ride In TOSRV Bicycling Event

Three persons from Circleville are participating in the 15th annual Tour of the Scioto River Valley, the biggest weekend bicycle tour event in America.

They are Rick Sill, Ted Sill, both of 1021 Lynwood Ave. and Kurt Hoffman, 997 Lynwood Ave.

A total of 3,300 bicycle riders from over 32 States and Canada will be gathering in Columbus, Ohio for the 2 day, 210 mile ride on May 8-9. The tour was "sold out" about the 1st of March and over 600 have been turned down due to the limited amount of space in Portsmouth. Nearly 700,000 miles will be ridden over the weekend. TOSRV was established in 1962 when only two riders made the trip. It has grown ever since with over 3160 making last year's trip.

The TOSRV begins at the State Capitol Building in Columbus after registration. The riders travel south along the Scioto River Valley for 106 miles until they reach Portsmouth, Ohio, the overnight location. Food and rest stops are provided by the organizers. The Columbus Council of American Youth Hostels, at 25 mile intervals. In Portsmouth, Ohio, the riders enjoy a banquet dinner and get a good night's sleep.

On Sunday morning the riders get an early start and return to Columbus over the same route. The average riding time for the full 210 miles is about 20 hours, or 10 hours for each of the two days. Abilities vary, however, and some are able to cut the time in half, while other riders are more leisurely TOSRV. Likewise, ages vary, and TOSRV finishers have ranged in age from 6 to 71.

TOSRV is one of an ever growing list of bicycling events as interest grows in recreation, adult bicycling, and environmental problems.

Hamman Completes Successful Season As Coach At Perry

Tom Hamman, assistant basketball coach at Perry High School, Massillon, coached his junior varsity basketball team to the Stark County AAA Federal League Championship with an 8-4 record. The team finished with an overall record of 10-8.

Last year Hamman's team finished with an 11-7 record and was second in the league.

His teams have been very well schooled in full court man-to-man pressure defense and that has been a major factor for his and Perry's success. This year's team had only one six-foot player on the 12-man squad and he was only 6-foot-1. Defense has been Hamman's forte according to Perry head basketball coach Larry Wilson.

Hamman assisted with the varsity which concludes its season with a 12-8 overall record and a second place finish in the league, even though only two lettermen returned from the previous record-breaking team of 15-6 from the 1974-75 season.

Perry was the top defensive team in the 26 team Stark County Circuit.

This season Perry opened its new 3,000 seat gymnasium and had its toughest schedule in 19 years.

This marked Hamman's third year at Perry with his former Westfall High School mentor who also completed his third season at Perry.

Wilson was the first head coach at Westfall after its consolidation.

Hamman is also serving as co-director for the third annual Perry Summer Basketball School which had over 240 boys and girls attend last summer.

He was a three-sport athlete at Westfall High School before graduating in 1966. He received his bachelor of science degree from Marietta College in 1970 and then taught and coached at Westfall before going to Perry. He is married to the former Ginny Yablonski of Massillon and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hamman, Williamsport.

Meeting Scheduled

There will be a meeting of the board of directors of the Circleville Girls Softball League 7 p.m. Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunkle, Dunkle Road.

All prospective coaches are invited to attend this meeting.

Players Set For Openers

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

There's always something about opening day in baseball. And there's always something about the opening day pitching assignment.

Such familiar names as Catfish Hunter, Tom Seaver and Jim Palmer are in the spotlight again this year, but there are also some that seem out of place for a variety of reasons.

For instance, there's Ferguson Jenkins. He's used to pitching on opening day — and this year will be no different, except it will be for the Boston Red Sox. Jenkins, a longtime top winner with the Chicago Cubs and Texas Rangers, was traded to the Red Sox over the winter and has drawn the opening day assignment against Baltimore Friday over such Red Sox bellweathers as Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and Bill Lee.

Mike Torrez would not have had an opening day assignment this year, except for a dramatic trade last week. A 20-game winner for Baltimore last year, he was sent to the Oakland A's and will pitch opening day against California. Normally, that job would have fallen to Vida Blue.

Gary Nolan got the nod for the Cincinnati Reds today against the Houston Astros in their traditional opener in the Queen City. Although Nolan had an outstanding season for Cincinnati last year, Don Gullett was supposed to be the Reds' starter on opening day. But Gullett missed several weeks of spring training due to a salary dispute and was still a couple weeks behind in his season's preparation.

And J.R. Richard, Nolan's rival at Riverfront Stadium, has not been considered Houston's No. 1 pitcher over the years. He's been given the prestigious assignment over mainstay Larry Dierker.

Meanwhile, the Hunters, Seavers and Palmers will be there, as usual. Hunter drew the opening assignment today for the New York Yankees against Milwaukee's Jim Slaton. Seaver leads the New York Mets in their Friday opener against Montreal's Steve Rogers. And Palmer faces Jenkins in Friday's Baltimore-Boston game.

In the other American League games Friday, Frank Tanana pitches for California against Oakland, Bert Blyleven leads Minnesota against Texas' Gaylord Perry and Kansas City's Paul Spletter faces Wilbur Wood of Chicago.

In the other American League games Friday, Frank Tanana pitches for California against Oakland, Bert Blyleven leads Minnesota against Texas' Gaylord Perry and Kansas City's Paul Spletter faces Wilbur Wood of Chicago.

In the National League, it's Don Sutton of Los Angeles against San Francisco's John Montefusco, Atlanta's Phil Niekro dueling Randy Jones of San Diego and Chicago's Ray Burris against Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis.

After today's two ceremonial openers and Friday's eight games, the major leagues will start swinging from the heels with 11 games Saturday and 13 Sunday.

76ers Pull Another Final-Second Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Basketball suddenly has turned into a game of seconds for the Philadelphia 76ers, who have won their last four National Basketball Association games with 10 seconds or less remaining.

Wednesday night, it turned into a game of seconds and fractions of inches.

Three seconds remained when Pete Maravich of New Orleans stepped to the foul line for two shots. Success would have tied the game at 100-100.

Maravich, with an accuracy percentage of 86.4 this season, made his 12th consecutive free throw then sent the second "about an eighth of an inch to the left. It was a very tight rim and it bounced off. I have no excuses. Some go in, some don't," he said.

When the second one didn't, the 76ers had their fourth straight victory — padding the lead with two foul shots in the 102-99 triumph.

In the other NBA games Wednesday night, the Detroit Pistons ripped the Milwaukee Bucks 106-96; the Washington Bullets tripped the Houston Rockets 115-105, and the Seattle SuperSonics nipped the Chicago Bulls 115-114.

"It's crazy," said Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue. "Somebody is with us. Yes sir, I'm getting grey hair. It's incredible."

"We might not be a great team, but we're exciting," added forward George McGinnis, who scored 37 points — 14 in the fourth quarter — and had 15 rebounds.

112 on Tal Skinner's free throw with 1:22 left. A would-be winning shot by Chicago's Mickey Johnson, who wound up with 29 points, missed at the buzzer.

Fred Brown and Burleson both added 20 points for the Sonics.

Bullets 115, Rockets 105

Phil Chenier scored 27 points, Elvin Hayes 21 and Nick Weatherpoon 20 to pace Washington's rout of Houston.

Indians Trade Minor Leaguers With Cardinals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals said Wednesday they have exchanged the contracts of two minor league pitchers with the Cleveland Indians of the American League.

In exchange for right-hander Harry Parker of their Tulsa farm club in the American Association, the Cardinals said, they will receive right-hander Roric Harrison from the Indians' Toledo club.

Parker, 28, was in his second tour with the Cards after reacquired from the New York Mets in a late season trade last year.

He has a 15-21 career major league record while Harrison, 28, whom the Atlanta Braves traded to the Indians last June, is 30-34 in his major league stints.

COLLEGE BOUND — Wayne Linthicum, son of Mrs. Darrell Linthicum 230 Pawnee Drive, has been selected for admission and will participate in football at Glenville State College, Glenville, W. Va. Linthicum is a senior at Logan Elm High School and played halfback on the Braves grid teams. The coach at Glenville State is Earl Adolfson.

The victory helped the 76ers move a full game ahead of the Buffalo Braves in the Atlantic Division battle for second place and the home court edge in the preliminary round of the playoffs next week.

The 76ers and the Braves each have two games left in the regular season. Philadelphia and Buffalo will meet in the opening round of the best-of-three playoffs with the homecourt advantage in the odd game hanging in the balance.

Philadelphia trailed 96-90 with 2:32 left then outscored the Jazz 12-3 to pull out the victory.

Maravich finished with 37 points for New Orleans.

Pistons 106, Bucks 96

Bob Lanier scored 23 points and Archie Clark 16 in the lastperiod flurry that enabled Detroit to end Milwaukee's fivegame winning streak and move within 1½ games of the first-place Bucks in their division chase.

The Pistons must win all three remaining games with Milwaukee losing the final two for Detroit to overtake Milwaukee and gain the homecourt advantage in the playoffs.

Bridgeman scored 23 to top the Bucks.

SuperSonics 115, Bulls 114

Willie Norwood scored a season-high 24 points to lead Seattle past Chicago. The Sonics went ahead for good 113-

Nicklaus Sees More Emphasis On U.S. Open

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus loves the Masters Golf Tournament, but it's really not the one he considers the most important.

"For anybody that's an American, it's the U. S. Open," Nicklaus said Wednesday on the eve of his quest for a sixth Masters championship.

"It's got to be the Open, because it's the championship of my country," he said. "I would think that for Gary Player it would be the South African Open because it is the championship of his country."

Still, he gets a little edgy every spring as he hones his game for the Masters, an invitation-only event that was created by the late Bob Jones.

"The Masters would probably be my favorite tournament," said the game's most dominant figure today. He is the odds-on favorite to repeat as champion of the Masters, which opens today on the picturesque Augusta National Golf Club course. He already owns a record 16 major championships and has won almost $3 million in official prize money.

Nicklaus hasn't won a tournament this year but he says he is pleased with his game, that it is progressing as he anticipated in gearing again for the first of the world's four major golf events—the Masters, the U. S. Open, the British Open and the PGA.

O-I Sends Top Official To Venezuela

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Owens-Illinois, Inc., faced with the prospect of losing its holdings in Venezuela, sent a top official to Caracas Wednesday to "get a first-hand understanding of what's transpiring there."

A company spokesman said one reason the executive is going there is because the company headquarters here has had no direct communications with the government in Caracas over its decision to expropriate the firm's Venezuelan operations.

The Venezuelan government announced Tuesday it intends to take over Owens-Illinois subsidiaries there because the firm gave in to demands of leftist kidnappers of its local manager and published the kidnappers' manifesto abroad.

The government said it would pay the company "fair" indemnities for its properties.

Owens-Illinois reportedly holds a major interest in four Venezuelan companies with a total capital of about $20 million which control 58 per cent of the Venezuelan glass container and plate glass market.

The government said publication of the manifesto, which attacked the Venezuelan government and foreign companies, violated the country's constitution.

William F. Niehous, 44, manager of Owens-Illinois' Venezuelan operations, was kidnapped from his home in Caracas Feb. 27. The company said it published the manifesto and complied with some other demands in an effort to insure Niehous' safe return.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite agreement on such issues as limiting the death penalty and abolishing penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana, administration officials have little hope that Congress will pass sweeping revisions in the federal criminal code.

Key Senate Judiciary Committee members on opposing sides have narrowed their differences in efforts to reach a compromise on the bill, known as S.1. Further committee efforts are at least at a temporary standstill, and administration officials say they have little hope Congress will be able to work out a final bill and pass it this year.

And Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and his GOP counterpart, Sen. Hugh Scott, said a month ago that unless an agreement could be reached within two weeks, it probably would be too late for action in this Congress.

The House Judiciary Committee, before starting its own hearings on the complex 799-page bill, is waiting for the Senate to act.

Liberals have won major concessions from the bill's sponsors that would allow the decriminalization of possession of marijuana in small amounts; repeal the Smith Act, which bars membership in groups that advocate the overthrow of the government, and limit the death penalty to murder in connection with an airplane hijacking.

Sens. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., chief sponsors of the measure, were members of a commission appointed by the late President Lyndon B. Johnson in 1966 to recommend revision of federal criminal laws. The legislation is the outgrowth of the commission's studies.

Some features of the bill as it has evolved over the years have aroused controversy and have been denounced by opponents as repressive.

In recent weeks McClellan and Hruska have been negotiating with a trio of Senate Judiciary Committee liberals, Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and James Abourezk, D-S.D., in an effort to reach a compromise.

In a statement Tuesday, McClellan and Hruska said they felt they had "gone more than halfway in making the concessions necessary to bring about an accommodation," adding, "Some of those concessions were extremely difficult for us to make."

One of the concessions was to agree to drop from the bill provisions for the death penalty, which is required under certain circumstances for crimes like wartime espionage and sabotage and others like hijacking and kidnapping resulting in death.

In another major move, McClellan and Hruska agreed to keep intact present laws against espionage and disclosure of classified information.

Hart, Kennedy and Abourezk issued a statement saying the modifications already agreed to were constructive, but adding that "there remain certain areas of concern. In the next few days we will continue to analyze and review these areas in the hope of reaching some common understanding on the subject of criminal law reform."

ODT Too Domineering, Rail Authority Claims

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The new Ohio Rail Transportation Authority is dominated by the Ohio Department of Transportation to the point it cannot function, two ORTA officials have complained.

Graeme MacKeown of Marysville, recently appointed executive director, and Carl E. Freshour of Marion, the authority's Republican vice chairman, said the authority has been left on the sidelines by ODOT.

But ODOT spokesmen said they have cooperated with ORTA — "I've seen nothing but the best cooperation within this department," said ODOT Deputy Director Benjamin Brice.

"There's no one here that's attempting to foil them in any way," said ODOT spokesman Nick Basso. "There's no one here attempting to dominate their activities."

Some confusion may have resulted over MacKeown's status since the authority has not formally hired him yet, the ODOT spokesmen said.

MacKeown, who said he was appointed March 17, told a legislative committee Tuesday that he was not implying malicious intent on the part

ODOT officials.

But, he said, the department—a separate agency which was to handle rail problems until ORTA could function—is keeping the job it was supposed to pass to ORTA.

MacKeown said since his appointment, he has been unable to get so much as a telephone, let alone an office and staff. He said he requested space in the State Office Tower, but found his requisition had been cancelled.

He said he was told "that my space was shot down, and that I would have to go to ODOT to obtain my space."

He still is not on the state payroll, MacKeown said, and he has no idea what the rail experts in ODOT are doing because they will not consult with him.

"I have to have some cooperation," MacKeown said. "I seem to be running into stone walls, and I don't know why."

"I have no concept of what's happening or what's going on," MacKeown said. "Those people won't deal with me."

MacKeown said, for example, that he has attempted to call Brice 11 times and has gone to Brice's office three times. He has offered to meet Brice at Brice's convenience, including nights or weekends, but has not been able to arrange a meeting, MacKeown said.

Brice said MacKeown had called, but the figure 11 sounded high. He said MacKeown is not on the payroll yet because "as far as I was able to figure out, no one was able to give us a resolution that he was their executive director. I've never seen that appointment."

"I can understand his frustration, but it's his authority that has to give some direction," Brice said.

Reagan's TV Talk Good Investment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's national television address may have been a failure in the ratings, but it was a good investment for his financially troubled campaign.

The appeal at the end of Reagan's speech last week was brief — an announcer's voice asking for funds to keep the former California governor's challenge to President Ford alive.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. figures that determine success or failure of a television show were dismal. Reagan's half-hour speech ran third in a field of three and had an audience of 6.5 million homes, while programs aired opposite the speech were being viewed in more than 27 million homes.

But according to Reagan campaign officials, the speech has brought from $450,000 to $500,000 into Reagan campaign coffers.

The network speech cost approximately $100,000 for production and air time. The return, according to general counsel Loren Smith, has been "a massive amount."

In addition, Reagan reported in Lubbock, Tex., that his campaign has received "thousands of wires and tens of thousands of letters" from supporters in response to his campaign speech.

Reagan, who temporarily broke off campaigning two weeks ago, reportedly to prepare for the speech, does not face a primary contest with Ford until May 1 in Texas, a key race on which the Reagan forces have placed heavy emphasis.

The new financial support will help fund his Texas campaign, as well as following races in the South and West.

Smith said Reagan's over-all money situation is "fairly tight."

The fund shortage has forced the former governor to use commercial airplane flights and, on occasion, a small private airplane to reach campaign appearances, rather than the chartered airliner he used to fly around the country early in the campaign.

Smith said the campaign's next financial report, due at the end of the week, will take into consideration expenses and income as of March 31 — the day of the speech — and will indicate assets of about $1 million. The money is mostly federal matching funds due from the Federal Election Commission.

He said the report would also show debts greater than the $680,000 listed in the previous month's report, although he would not give a specific figure.

Strike Vote Set By URW

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — United Rubber Workers at several plants here are to vote today on whether to authorize their union to call a strike if negotiations fail on a master contract which expires April 20.

URW officials should know by Friday the nationwide sentiment of the 60,000 workers employed by the Big Four rubber manufacturers.

Already, the locals representing URW workers at Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. plants here and workers at Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s Topeka, Kan., plant have voted overwhelmingly to support a strike if no settlement is reached.

A spokesman for URW headquarters here said "statements of international solidarity" have been received from rubber unions in Germany, where similar contract talks were underway, and in Argentina, England and Ireland.

A pledge of support also has arrived from the rubber workers union in Japan which the URW helped establish last year.

Peter Bommarito, president of the international, said the union's executive board has recommended he be authorized to concentrate its economic actions against one of the Big Four, regardless of whether one or all were struck. He said that if a strike comes the companies are expected to maintain a united front.

In its contract talks last month with Goodyear, Firestone, B.F. Goodrich Co. and Uniroyal Inc. the URW demanded raises sufficient to make the $5.50 hourly average wage equal to United Auto Workers pay and keep it that way. The union also has asked for an unlimited cost-of-living adjustment.

The rubber makers' main concern has been to separate tire workers pay scales from those in nontire operations, to obtain a new base for figuring pay in some piece-work assignments and to alter work rules to increase efficiency and competition relative to smaller, nonunion companies.

Views On Television Tiger

NEW YORK (AP) — rebuild a world shattered by World War II.

The book since has been turned into a surprisingly poor drama called "Truman at Potsdam," a 90-minute special NBC is airing tonight. The show should have been much better, if only because of the actors in the leading roles.

They are Ed Flanders, cast as President Harry S. Truman, Oscar-winner John Houseman, cast as British prime minister Winston Churchill, and Jose Ferrer, who plays Soviet premier Joseph Stalin.

Unfortunately, only Ferrer is convincing. Flanders is just passable, while Houseman seems uncertain at times whether he is to use or disregard the distinctive speech mannerisms of Britain's wartime leader.

The script of this production, taped in Hamburg, Germany, tries to set the stage for various moments during the Potsdam conference by starting them in the manner of an evening newscast on television.

Correspondent David Schoenbrun sits at a desk, a TV screen behind him, and after he speaks of the great import and consequence of the scene at hand, the camera pulls in tight on the screen and the drama begins.

The avowed hope of the three leaders when they met at Potsdam, a suburb of Berlin, was to achieve a "just and lasting peace."

But as the book points out in its foreword, the conference only exhibited three men who were intent upon increasing the power of their countries and of themselves and who perceived that they could enhance their power more certainly in a world of discord than tranquility.

The script, by Sidney Carroll, tries to show this as well as the characters of the men involved — Truman, the hard-nosed poker player, Churchill, the sly man of history with more angles of attack than a pool shark, Stalin, the subtle and brilliant negotiator.

But the telling of their story and that of the conference, while generally faithful to the book, emerges oddly dull, crammed with minutiae. It's a disappointment, considering the fascinating subject involved.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A time to use your innate aggressiveness to the hilt. Someone with "pull" could be very useful if you take the initiative.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): There may be a catch to a certain financial proposition. You'd do well to take the advice of an expert in such lines.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Watch emotions carefully. Don't let sudden enthusiasms carry you to a point where they actually become obsessions.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Think carefully about shouldering new responsibilities. Even if you are willing, be certain you can share certain present duties with others.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Your lucky day! Like a "bolt from the blue," you may receive an unexpected windfall in the afternoon.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A chance to push your interests. Others can be won around to your way of thinking easily and willingly now.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Do not become disillusioned if some disapproval of your ideas and are unwilling to fall in with your plans. If understanding and tolerant, you just COULD bring them around.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): Make no decisions until all avenues have been explored. Should temporary deterrents appear, handle discerningly, with clear-headedness, smart control.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Your ingenuity, foresight and intuition should be at a peak now. A good time to look into new offerings and gauge their real value.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Stellar influences now warn against misleading influences, deceit and dubious schemes. Be alert and counteract with your innate integrity and good judgment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): If you really have time for "extras" on a busy day, take them on judiciously. Don't overtax energies and don't hesitate to ask for help if you find yourself in a bind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Plenty of competition about, but don't let it dismay you. Anchor your sails to the well-founded and engage opponents with enthusiasm.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with unusual versatility, a lively imagination and a great enthusiasm for life. You are attracted to both music and the theater, but could also make an excellent business leader. You have a good head for finances and, even if you choose one of the arts or professions as a career, could make a great deal of money at it. You are inclined to be too "bossy" at times, however, tend to "lay down the law" for everyone. Curb this trait since it could make enemies of the very ones whose affections you desire. Birthdate of: Charles Beaudelaire, Fr. poet; W. C. Fields, famed comedian; Mary Pickford and Jean-Paul Belmondo, screen stars.

Unemployment Benefits Denied College Student

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A full-time student can be denied unemployment benefits on the basis of his college enrollment, a state appeals court has decided.

"The student that starts school after becoming unemployed has the burden to show that he is actually available for and actively seeking work," wrote Judge John McCormack of the 10th District Court of Appeals.

The appeals court ruled Tuesday that the Bureau of Employment Services was right when it stopped unemployment benefits to Jerry F. Pewitt of Alliance when he enrolled at Ohio State University on Sept. 30, 1974.

Pewitt was laid off for lack of work from the Credit Bureau of Alliance on Aug. 23, 1974, court records show. A week later, he was found eligible for unemployment compensation and received benefits for three weeks.

When the bureau discovered he was enrolled at college, his unemployment check for the week of Oct. 5 was denied.

Pewitt's appeal to the bureau administrator and the Franklin County Common Pleas Court were denied. He contended he was willing to change his class schedule to obtain full-time employment.

Hearing Set To Increase Reds Parking

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds President Bob Howsam protested recurrent plans by Cincinnati City Council to raise the price of parking at Riverfront Stadium.

Cincinnati City Council backed down from planned parking price increases before the National League Playoffs and World Series after the Reds complained of a city "rip-off."

A council committee scheduled hearings for Monday on an ordinance to raise parking under the stadium to $2.25 and to $2 at surrounding city-owned lots.

"Certainly increased operating costs cannot be ignored," said Howsam in a letter to the city and to season ticket holders. "But we would like to point out that the proposed increase to $2 in stadium open lots amounts to a 100 per cent jump within just three years, and the increase to $2.25 in the stadium garage means an 80 per cent jump within the same period."

Howsam also said he opposes an increase to $3 for the 1976 playoffs and World Series if the Reds are in the post season games this year.

The Forest Service, part of the Agriculture Department, opposed the expansion. But 5 1/2 months after the meeting in Callaway's office the service reversed its stand and gave tentative approval to the move.

The staff report, written by chief Interior Committee counsel Owen Malone, cited numerous "communications and contacts with the Forest Service" in 1975 by Callaway and other participants in the resort.

But, Malone said, investigators also found evidence that the turnabout by the Forest Service in the Crested Butte case may have been "solely the result of entirely valid planning considerations."

Meanwhile, records filed with the government show that at the same time Callaway was proposing that the ski resort be expanded onto federal land, the corporation was facing financial difficulties.

The Crested Butte Development Corp. showed a loss of $1.33 million in the 1975 fiscal year, according to a report filed with the Department of Housing and Urban Development on Dec. 8.

The report, containing an audit of the corporation, was filed with HUD's expansion. But 5 1/2 months after the meeting in Callaway's office the service reversed its stand and gave tentative approval to the move.

Callaway Attempted To Get Federal Land, Probers Say

WASHINGTON (AP) — While he served as secretary of the Army, Howard H. Callaway made repeated attempts to get the U.S. Forest Service to let him expand his Colorado ski resort on federal land, Senate investigators say.

But, the investigators concluded, there is "no positive evidence" Callaway's intervention made any difference in the decision paving the way for the expansion.

These conclusions are contained in a staff report expected to be released today as a Senate subcommittee opens hearings on Callaway's involvement with the Crested Butte Development Corp. while he served as Army secretary.

Callaway, who owns 66 per cent of the company, resigned as President Ford's campaign manager following published reports that he met in his Pentagon office last July 3 with Agriculture Department and Forest Service officials to argue for expansion of his Crested Butte ski resort onto a nearby federally owned mountain.

The Forest Service, part of the Agriculture Department, opposed the interstate land sales office by Harrison F. Russell, an attorney for Crested Butte. The report went on to note that, despite the loss, the firm had assets of $7.1 million.

A committee aide said the financial condition of Crested Butte — and speculation that its financial problems in 1975 may have been a reason expansion was sought — will be one of the chief topics of discussion at the hearings, expected to last three or four days.

Callaway is expected to testify before the panel later in the week.

Sen. Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., chairman of the subcommittee, said the hearings will try to find whether Callaway used "undue influence" in his efforts to get the Forest Service to allow the expansion.
